ANGIENT WISDOM.

As long ago as in the days of the Trojan war the discovery was made that it was a good thing to learn from the enemy, and this ancient discovery is one that the Pemocracy of New York City might to-day apply to the political situation with profit. About Regublican barmony there is no doubt. All Republicaus are placated. all are inside of the breastworks, and all dissensions and difficulties among them-not now.

To say that this is not the situation in the Democratic camp is to state it mildly. At the present important stage of the campaign there are eminent Democratic leaders who declare that a third local ticket is necessary to call out the full Demogratic vote, while equally eminent Democratic leaders are preparing to treat the third ticket as a Republican device.

Why cannot the Democratic leaders learn from the Republican enemy?

Perfume for the Bath. A delicious rose perfume for bathing can be made by loosely filling a small glass bottle with freshly cathered rose cor pouring the purest glycerine into the interstices between the leaves. When the bottle is full to the neck close accurely with a glass stopper and place the bettle where the rays of the sun will fall directly upon it. In a few weeks the glycerine will be ready for use and a few drops of it will perfume a bowl of water nicely. This preparation will generally be found very beneficial to the skin during cold, weather, but if the glycerine is objectionable a very fine odorless spirit of wine may be used
